Meetings

Not every important moment happens in a full-scale conference. Sometimes it's a board meeting, a client briefing, an executive workshop or a strategy session that demands serious thinking.

At Metropolis, meetings receive the same level of care as our largest events - because the quality of the environment shapes the quality of the conversation.

Premium coffee on arrival, attentive service, flexible room configurations and a skyline backdrop that sets the right tone from the moment guests arrive.

Choose from a catered breakfast, half day or full day session - or room only if you prefer to bring your own.
